About this Qualification

The Advanced Diploma of Accounting is designed for those who wish to develop their skills and expertise in a range of situations and undertake accounts management tasks working in a variety of roles including tax agents, accounts managers and business analysts across a range of businesses and industries. The course focuses on a range of accounts management functions such as corporate governance, economics, taxation and financial statistics.

Mode of Delivery

Online Study

This course will require you to attend a mandatory online training session of approximately one and a half to two hours a week for each unit/cluster you are enrolled in. The days & times of which are set out further below. Attendance on campus will be required for some assessments. Dates and times will be confirmed with you by your lecturer/s at the start of your study.

A standard study period runs for either 10 or 20 weeks, depending on the unit/cluster being delivered.

As well as the mandatory online training sessions, you will need to complete approximately 6 hours of additional study each week outside of class hours, including private study, assignment preparation, and research.

Your study will use the Student Hub, with access provided to you after enrolment. You will need to have the basic technical requirements for at-home study. If you don't have access to a computer and Wi-Fi at home, we recommend using our library computers during library hours.

What you need to set up at home:

- Reliable broadband Internet access
- Headset with speakers and microphone (for interactive Collaborate sessions)
- Computer with ability to edit word documents (.docx)
- Computer with ability to edit view adobe PDF files (.pdf)
- Access to video recording device with the capability to transfer to a computer (e.g. iPhone or similar smartphone)
- Camera to conduct online activities

The nature of online study can involve a significant investment of time and the ability to be a focused, self-motivated learner. You should consider your personal circumstances and past study history before committing to study online. Find out more in our online study info pack below.

General Information

Study commitment

SM TAFE online study option that is provided for the FNS60222 Advanced Diploma of Accounting is based on a structured online weekly live webinar session. In addition, students are required to complete pre-reading and preparation in their own time prior to attending classes and some out-of-class assessment activities. The time allocation would be approximately 6 additional hours per week for the period of the course for each unit/cluster enrolled in.

Assessment deadlines

Time management of tasks and submitting assessments on time are essential. The assessment tasks for the different units will all have various due dates that need to be followed. (i.e. - assessment tasks do not have the entire length of your full course enrolment period to complete, they must be submitted on the date they are due).

Assessment requirements

The online units will require the completion of a supervised assessment. Some of which require on campus attendance to fulfill the unit assessment requirements.

Duration and study modes

Online Virtual Class Delivery – The course will be delivered so it can be completed within an 12-month period if a student enrolls in all available offerings each semester, or over a longer period of time if not all available units are undertaken each semester.

To complete the full qualification in two semesters a student should enrol in all available online units.

Students may be eligible to obtain credits for individual units of competency as a result of previous experience gained in employment, training or education. For further information please visit the Recognition of Prior Learning page.
